WOOD
CONNECTION

About us

Namibia's wood specialist, whatever your design, whatever you need. We can make it happen.

Thomas Pade was attracted by the raw beauty and business potential of Namibia when he decided in 1995 to settle in Windhoek. A dynamic craftsman with an eye for beauty and a vision for professional productivity and growth, he started his joinery.

Over the years Thomas Pade created a unique company culture based on his conviction that the human touch and individual qualifications are at the core of any successful business.

Hiring and training the most promising and dedicated individuals they managed to gather a team of professionals, all passionate about their craft.

More than twenty years later Pade and his team have made The Wood Connection a byword for traditional craft, fresh design and quality products matching the highest standards of perfection - an ongoing journey based on deep commitment.

“If you can dream it – we can make it!”
